

BARAD-DUR 18

BARAD-DUR 18, a biweekly magazine of postal Diplomacy, edited & published every other Saturday by Jack L. Chalker, 5111 Liberty Heights Ave., Baltimore, Md. 21207, USA. Available for trade or at 10/$1.

NOTES & COMMENTS

ORDER MISTAKE. In #17-C, note that the French order should read (and was played as) A OURG (S) A MUNICH. Please correct your copies.

PROXY PLAYING. Charles Reinsel will be in Europe until about the 2nd week in May; during that time he has appointed proxy players to make his moves for him. In B game, John Koning will execute the winter, and -- John -- I note that the Spring '07 moves are due just before Charles gets back. If that's the case you have my permission to submit a spring '07 move for him and I'll allow him a revision if he gets home in time.

Jerry Jacks, Austria in C, has left the Baltimore area. For personal reasons we won't print his address but will include it on all C-game player's copies of BARAD-DUR. It's a temporary address.

OSGILIATH as of right now is in limbo, at least until Jerry gets settled. However, it's not a dead project yet. Players who had signed up for OSGILIATH games, though, should write Ron Bounds and join ORTHANC G8-1966-H, which really should be F but why fight it? Until Jacks gets settled Bounds is playing Austria in C; Sattel has taken the Italian moves in ORTHANC game A. This is only until we hear something definite from Jerry on whether or not he's still in. If he does not wish to continue, or does not reply, we'll consider it a resignation and the replacements will become permanent.

NEW MAGAZINE: MARSOVIA, from Robert J. Ward, 5716 J Street, in Sacramento, California 95819, is just starting. Among other things Ward offers contests & prizes. Games should be open; subscription the usual 10/$1.00. Sorry to be so late with the plugs, but I often misplace the things. To keep up with Diplomacy arguments and discussions, everybody should receive GRAUSTARK and LONELY MOUNTAIN. To keep up with new magazines, WILD & WOOLY.

A great number of new Diplomatic games have started; no longer do we have just good old Diplomacy, but variants. The best magazine for all sorts of variants is Diplomania, from Don Miller, which has, among other things, a Middle-Earth Diplomacy game (a la Tolkien) going, complete with a startling new variation -- the Army-Fleet, and a regular Diplomacy game in which all players are anonymous -- you play it just like normal, but you have no idea who you're playing against & must conduct Diplomacy blind through propaganda. Other variations, mostly from Dan Alderson, are Economic Diplomacy, Superdiplomacy, and Worldip, all of whom are a bit too complex to explain here. Brannan can give you samples. Alderson lives at 6720 Day St., Tujunga, Calif. 91042.

And there's even an entirely new game, invented by Charles (LONELY MOUNTAIN) Wells, called PARLEMENT (spelling is correct). It's played in the same manner as Postal Diplomacy, but instead of countries you control political parties, and try to get bills passed, win elections, etc. I must admit that I do not understand the game even after reading the rules, but you might and it's interesting anyway. The first game is now being set up & played; it contains mostly familiar Postal games-masters. The magazine is COUP, and it's 10/$1 from Wells (3678 Lindholm Rd., Cleveland, Ohio, 44120).

Russians seeking to save her from the villanous French. Only England has pure motives!

ica, taking most of the treasury with him.

PROPAGANDA: Oslo, Sept.4, 1902: Sir Alfred Huffley, receiving his 2nd Nobel Prize for Peace, denied that he had pocketed half the returns of the recently instituted income tax, which sent a quarter of England's population to jail for one day. "The funds obtained from the tax are going to building and maintaining the fleets and armies protecting our beloved England from the German barbarians," said Huffley, with the strains of Rue Oritannia swelling in the background. "As for leaving Europe, we are certainly not leaving it to Germany," said Huffley, commenting on the German Empress' remark.

Singapore, Oct. 2: Oritish warships landed troops today in the former Dutch, now German East Indies. After defeating a small German warfleet off Oilliton I. troops landed at Batavia, Java, and other points. In China Oritish troops occupied German Tsingtao, while Australian marines landed on German Pacific isles. Casualties are reported
